BRUCE HILL NAMED ASSISTANT TO THE REGIONAL DIRECTOR IN REGION 21 (LOS ANGELES)

National Labor Relations Board General Counsel Ronald Meisburg announced his selection of Bruce Hill as the Assistant to the Regional Director of the Agency's Region 21 Office in Downtown Los Angeles, CA. Mr. Hill has been the Resident Officer in the Agency's Little Rock, AR Resident Office for the past 5 years. In his new position, he will assist Region 21 Director James Small in the administration and enforcement of the National Labor Relations Act in Los Angeles and four other counties in Southern California.

The NLRB administers and enforces the National Labor Relations Act. It conducts secret-ballot elections to determine whether employees desire union representation and investigates and remedies unfair labor practices.

In announcing the appointment, General Counsel Meisburg noted:

Bruce Hill is a dedicated career employee who has earned an excellent reputation among his colleagues within the Agency and among its stakeholders. During his long service as a District Specialist, Mr. Hill worked in many of the Agency's Regional Offices, acquiring a deep understanding of the Agency and the Act. That insight, coupled with the administrative skills Mr. Hill has sharpened as Resident Officer in Little Rock, will serve him well in his new management position in Los Angeles.

After earning an A.B. in Philosophy and a Masters of Education in Education Administration from the University of Illinois, Mr. Hill taught school and worked for the Social Security Administration before joining the NLRB as a Field Examiner in 1977 in the Agency's Peoria, IL office. Mr. Hill was promoted to the Resident Officer position in Little Rock in 2003.
